

Building the Medical CPS Community

How do we build the Medical CPS community and enhance collaboration between the community members, as well as engage clinicians, medical device manufacturers, and government agencies?

Several excellent suggestions have been made at the BoF session during the CPS PI meeting.

One way to help researchers interact with clinicians is to share success stories. Maybe people who have built successful lasting collaborations can share their experiences and offer suggestions on how to bridge the "language barrier" when talking to doctors and nurses.
